

Natasha Singh, MD, MPH, MS, FACEP

Professional Bio

Dr. Natasha Singh is currently practicing in the Dallas-Fort Worth area as an Emergency Medicine Physician and Clinical Instructor. She completed an Administrative Fellowship at JPS Hospital in Fort Worth and served as the Emergency Department Associate Medical Director at John Peter Smith Hospital and Clinical Decision Unit Medical Director at Baylor Scott & White All Saints Hospital in Fort Worth. She also served as Medical Director of the Emergency Department of Carrollton Regional Medical Center as they were transitioning from Baylor Scott & White Carrollton. Currently she works clinically in the Emergency Departments of both BSW Grapevine and Carrollton Regional Medical Center.

Dr. Singh was born in Dallas, Texas and completed her undergraduate degree in Political Science at Johns Hopkins University and her Masters in Nutrition at Columbia University. She obtained her M.D. and M.P.H. degrees at The University of Texas Health Sciences Center San Antonio. Following medical school she completed her residency training in Emergency Medicine at Drexel's Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. While in Philadelphia she was one of two Resident Physicians to serve on the Board of Pennsylvania College of Emergency Physicians in conjunction with the American College of Emergency Physicians.

Dr. Singh resides in Carrollton, TX with her husband and two young sons where she is an active member of the community participating in several community Boards. She is currently chair of the Neighborhood Advisory Committee for the City of Carrollton. She also serves on the board of the Metrocrest Health Authority. In her free time Dr. Singh enjoys traveling, sports, cheering on the Dallas Cowboys, and spending quality time with family and friends.