BACKGROUND:

The Public Works Department negotiated a Professional Services Agreement with Freese & Nichols, Inc. to perform a Risk and Resilience Assessment of our community water system which is required by AWIA (Americas Water Infrastructure Act of 2018) and mandated by the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency). Every water utility that serves more than 3,000 people must complete the assessment and submit a certification to the EPA.

Risk and Resilience Assessments evaluate the vulnerabilities, threats and consequences from potential hazards. These include natural hazards and malevolent acts, resilience of water facility infrastructure (including pipes, barriers, water sources, storage and distribution, computers and other automated systems), monitoring practices, financial systems, chemicals and operations and maintenance.
